

CSN

THE CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF
NEUROECONOMICS
AT GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY

Arch Lab
department of psychology

THE KRASNOW INSTITUTE
for Advanced Study at George Mason University

- Organizations at GMU
 - Center for the Study of Neuroeconomics
 - Arch Laboratory, Psychology
 - Krasnow Institute for Advanced Study
- Team Members
 - Kevin McCabe, Professor of Economics
 - Raja Parasuraman, Professor of Psychology
 - Frank Krueger, Assistant Professor of Neuroscience

- Research Areas of Interest
 - Building Laboratory Experiments to Study Trust
 - in People, Information, and Systems
 - Measuring the Neural and Genetic Correlates of Trust with Behavior
 - Inferring the Likelihood of Trust
- We've been doing this research for over a decade

- Summarize your unique qualifications and capabilities
 - Experimental and Behavioral Laboratories for up to 40 subjects
 - fMRI (3T) and EEG (32-, 64-, and 128-channel) laboratories and data analysis
 - Molecular Genetics and Proteomics Laboratory
 - Real-time fMRI
 - Virtual Worlds Experiments

- Specific capabilities your group is seeking or,
 - Contracting Experience with IARPA
 - Complimentary Field Data and Analysis
 - Other Complimentary Laboratories/Skill Sets

Contact Information

Kevin McCabe, Ph.D.

Professor of Economics and Law

Director, Center for the Study of Neuroeconomics

Department of Economics

George Mason University

kmccabe@gmu.edu

703-993-9441

Raja Parasuraman, Ph.D.

Professor of Psychology

Director, PhD Program in Human Factors and Applied Cognition, Arch Lab

Department of Psychology

George Mason University

rparasur@gmu.edu

703-993-1357

CSN

THE CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF
NEUROECONOMICS
AT GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY

Arch Lab
department of psychology

THE KRASNOW INSTITUTE
for Advanced Study at George Mason University

